PIRO: a grand gathering place, reimagined

Designed to bring people together, the Piro table evolves this season with the Piro Grand Dining Table by Michael H. Nielsen. This new iteration features a more expansive tabletop and two legs in place of one - enhancing both its scale and stability. Available in Fenix laminate (light grey or grey-brown) and FSC®-certified oak (oiled, smoked-oiled, or white-pigmented oiled), the legs can be finished in oak with travertine or marble detailing, adding a grounded, sculptural touch.

LATCH: evolving form, enduring character

First introduced as a series of sculptural coffee tables, Latch was born from Singaporean studio Dazingfeelsgood's 2017 entry to the BOLIA DESIGN AWARDS - a bold study in formal asymmetry. The concept later grew into a distinctive large dining table, and now expands further with a new medium size designed to suit a wider range of homes. With its flowing, organic silhouette and oak construction - available in oiled, smoked-oiled, or white-pigmented finishes - Latch remains a striking focal point, whatever the scale.

PALO: adaptable craftsmanship

From Croatian studio neisako comes the brand-new design Palo, a series of FSC®-certified solid oak tables that blend soft contours with precise detailing. Their seamless outlines and sturdy construction make them both inviting and enduring. Available in rectangular or round formats - with or without extension leaves - Palo adapts easily to any setting, from everyday meals to larger gatherings.
