New sculptural marble tables by BOLIA Designed for seamless indoor-outdoor living

BOLIA introduces Eida Outdoor, a new take on the sculptural indoor coffee table series by designer Martin Lauritsen—now reimagined for life under open skies. Crafted in durable beige marble, resembling the look of travertine, this new addition brings refined aesthetics and lasting quality to outdoor spaces.

Originally designed for interiors, Eida retains its distinctive silhouette outdoors. Clean lines, organic curves, and harmonious proportions meet the natural textures of marble, creating pieces that feel both calming and contemporary.

The stone's soft beige tones and unique veining elevate terraces, balconies, patios, and garden corners with both aesthetics and function.

The Eida Outdoor collection is available in three configurations:

- A taller version with a 55 x 55 cm square top
- A medium-height model with a 90 cm round top
- A lower design with a generous 100 x 100 cm square top

Mixing shapes and heights allows for decorative arrangements that suit a range of outdoor settings, whether it's a minimalist city balcony or a spacious backyard deck.

True to BOLIA's design ethos, Eida Outdoor is made to last. Each piece is crafted from durable, premium materials that age beautifully, season after season.

Built for longevity and daily use, the tables come with a 10-year warranty—an expression of BOLIA's commitment to enduring quality and thoughtful craftsmanship designed to be enjoyed for generations.
