Lúcén Pendant by BOLIA

A new, Japandi inspired design icon

Where heritage meets contemporary design: introducing Lucén, the new pendant lamp series by Ferriani Sbolgi for BOLIA's SS25 collection. Inspired by the Japandi aesthetic, these luminaires cast a soft, enveloping glow that integrates seamlessly into any interior.

Each lamp combines a lightweight metal framework with FSC®-certified oak rings, striking the perfect balance between robustness and subtlety. Draped in a delicately pleated beige fabric, Lucén gently diffuses the light to create a warm and tranquil atmosphere.

"Lucén redefines the traditional lantern, adapting it to a modern aesthetic while preserving its essential qualities: a light structure and diffuse illumination," the designers explain.

Offered in three shapes—Octagon, Ellipse, and Cylinder—and in multiple sizes, Lucén invites creative displays. Whether hung individually or in ethereal clusters, these lamps bring a poetic touch to any space. Their understated yet refined expression suits a wide array of environments—from a cosy living room to a chic restaurant or a stylish hotel lobby.

Based in Florence, the Ferriani Sbolgi studio has specialised in furniture design and art direction since 2020. Recognized by the Red Dot Design Award and the Archiproducts Design Award, the duo was listed by Dezeen in 2022 among the most promising emerging design studios.
